Due to the continuing and evolving COVID-19 pandemic, the Campaign Regulations for the 93rd Oscars, as they pertain to the International Feature Film category, have been updated as follows:

- Film companies may send Watch Now notices to all Academy members that a film competing in the International Feature Film category is available to view on the Academy Screening Room.
- Film companies may send a link to a virtual Q&A (live or pre-recorded), so long as it is attached to a Watch Now notice that the film is available to view on the Academy Screening Room. Said link shall be available to the member for no more than a 24-hour period.
 - NOTE: As stated in the Campaign Regulations, “After nominations are announced, and until the final polls close, Academy members may be invited to a maximum of four screenings of a nominated film preceded or followed by a Q&A. All participants in such Q&A’s other than the moderator must be nominated or have been eligible for nomination.”
- Virtual receptions are not permitted.

As the International Feature Film award is not a branch specific category and has its own viewing requirements and voting procedures, any such notice must be sent to the entire membership.

If a film is also competing in a category other than International Feature Film, the additional category may be listed in the above notices.

All updates should be read in conjunction with the full Campaign Regulations and are subject to change at any time.
